

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

JANUARY 2017

The Commission is pleased to honor Marlon Dionko as their January 2017 Employee of the Month for his dedication and support to the Fair Hearing Office.

Marlon is a 1404 clerk. He has been in the Fair Hearing Office since March 2015. From his first day in this position, he has been a tremendous asset to the team. The office has a very high phone call volume and Marlon is always incredibly patient with the clients that call with concerns relative to their benefits. He always treats clients with respect and is helpful to them, explaining their rights and answering questions relative to their scheduled hearings.

Recently, the Fair Hearing Office Program Analyst was out on leave for a two month period. Without hesitation, Marlon stepped up his responsibilities insuring that Fair Hearings continued to be scheduled in a timely manner and the needs of clients were met. Marlon's commitment to being a team player provided a seamless transition.

We thank you, Marlon. Your efforts are highly valued and greatly appreciated. It is with gratitude and great pride that we present you as the Human Services Commission's January 2017 Employee of the Month.
